

CRUISER EMDEN IS DESTROYED

ACCIDENT CASE FIRST ON LIST

Juries Are Impanelled in the United States District Court to Hear Two Suits for Loss of Life.

The United States district court which took a recess just previous to the election, resumed its session in this city this Tuesday morning with Judge Edgar Aldrich, of Littleton, presiding. The first case called was the action of Edward S. Titcomb, administrator of Charles R. Gray of Rochester, vs. the Boston & Maine railroad. Mr. Gray was killed at a crossing of the railroad on April 15, 1914, and his administrator seeks to recover $12,000. Remick and Jackson appear for the plaintiff and Leslie P. Snow and George T. Hughes for the defendant. The following jury was empaneled: William T. Entwistle of Portsmouth, foreman; Albert J. Bich of Mason, Arthur D. Child of Hanover, Frank T. Dickey of Manchester, George P. Smith of Merrimack, William W. Goodale of Amherst, James H. Reynolds of Manchester, William O. Dodge of New Boston, Lewis S. Swan of Exeter, Frank E. Avery of Londonderry, Fred P. Jones of Milton, Perley W. Hadley of Temple. The jury in charge of U. S. Marshal Charles J. O'Neil immediately left for Rochester to view the scene of the accident.

The following jury was empaneled to hear the action of Henry E. Pushey, administrator of Paul Paulette, who was killed on April 6, 1912, while at work in the Monadnock mills at Claremont: Albert S. Blanchard of Manchester, Arthur W. McDaniell of Barrington, George D. Cummings of Peterborough, Charles F. Batchelder of Concord, Everett P. Fox of Milton, Bela Kingman of Newmarket, J. J. Tilton of Epping, John A. Blackman of Concord, George W. Cheney of Nashua, Eugene C. Howard of Rochester, Charles A. Smart of Durham, Fred P. Dearth of Woodsville. Joseph Madden appears for the plaintiff and Hurd and Kinney for the defendant.

REPORTED U. S. S. NORTH CAROLINA BLOWN UP BY A MINE

Navy Officers However Give No Credence to the Rumor.

A rumor that the cruiser North Carolina had been blown up in the Mediterranean Sea was in circulation in Boston today and also at the Charlestown navy yard. The Boston papers could get no confirmation of the report, which likely started from the statement made by the navy department that Secretary Daniels has been unable to get any reply to cable messages sent to both the North Carolina and Tennessee.

The officers at the local yard and the Charlestown station know nothing whatsoever of the report and no credence whatever is given the story in Boston or elsewhere.

A CHANCE

A young author, whose ability was by no means equal to his conceit, was discoursing at length upon the merits of his work.

"I am tired of writing of that which others write of," he said. "I want to create an original work, something no one has ever written about or ever will write about."

A learned man turned quickly to the speaker. "Why not write your own eulogy?" he said.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Australian Warship Sidney Overtakes German Cruiser in Bay of Bengal

After Brief Engagement German Vessel Takes Fire and is Beached on Coco Island.

(Special to The Herald)

London, Nov. 10.—The German cruiser Emden, which has been preying on British commerce in the Orient ever since the war broke out, and which recently sunk a Russian warship in Straits Settlement, has been destroyed by the Australian warship Sidney, in the Bay of Bengal. This information was officially given out by the Admiralty, through the government press bureau. The Emden was forced on Coco island and burned. The news of the destruction of the Emden caused great rejoicing here and is regarded as a significant phase of the war.

The Sidney, one of the seventy warships that were on the trail of the Emden, came upon the German cruiser early yesterday. The Emden tried to escape from the Australian warship which was heavier than the German cruiser, but was unable to do so.

The Sidney opened fire on the German ship and the latter being unable to outdistance her pursuer, stood by off Kiping in the Coco island group, and gave battle. After a sharp fight during which the Emden was badly damaged by the Sidney's shells, the Emden was run ashore.

The Emden had been set afire by shells and was burning briskly when she was beached. The Sidney fired a few more shells into the stranded German ship and then withdrew.

The Emden was completely destroyed and the loss of life on board was heavy. The casualties on the Sidney were three killed and fifteen wounded. The Emden was a sister ship to the Dresden and was built in 1906, being 386 feet long, 44 feet beam, with a displacement of 3,292 tons. Her ordinary complement was 361 men.

NEWS FROM THE GERMAN SOURCE

(Special to The Herald)
Berlin, via Amsterdam, Nov. 10.—German forces are still maintaining their successful advance against the allies in France and Belgium.

An official announcement made here today was as follows: "The enemy has been compelled to give ground at several points, as a result of our strong offensive attacks. Our advance has been maintained and we have gained a strong position about Ypres and Arras.

BULGARIA WILL ENTER THE WAR

(Special to The Herald)
Athens, Greece, Nov. 10.—Bulgaria is preparing for war. Mines are being planted in the Gulf of Lagos, an arm of the Aegean Sea, to prevent an attack upon Bulgarian shipping there.

GERMAN CRUISER BOTTLED UP

(Special to The Herald)
London, Nov. 10.—The German cruiser Koenigsberg has been imprisoned by British ships off the coast of German East Africa, and can not escape because of obstructions placed in the channel. This was the announcement made today by the government press bureau.

BATTLE RAGING SOUTH OF YPRES

(Special to The Herald)
Paris, Nov. 10.—Official announcement was made today that a German attack south of Ypres, was in progress, and that the French forces have made considerable progress around Dixmude and between Ypres and Armentieres. The British troops have also repulsed all attacks made by the Germans.

The battle continues with undiminished fury, its fierceness being increased by the reinforcements that both sides have received.

ENGLISH CIVILIANS TAKEN PRISONERS

(Special to The Herald)
Berlin, Nov. 10.—The arrest of English civilians continue throughout Germany. As fast as they are taken into custody they are interned. More than two thousand are prisoners at the Ruhleben concentration camp.

Skates sharpened, scissors, knives, and all edge tools sharpened; saws filed, umbrellas mended, keys made, locks repaired, and razors honed and rehandled at Horne's 33 Daniel street.

NO CHANGE IN NAVAL PROGRAM

President Wilson States There Will Be No Increase in Naval Appropriation for Coming Year.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—There will be no increase in the naval appropriation for the coming year, President Wilson stated today. None has been recommended by the Secretary of the Navy, he told his cabinet. The State Department appropriation will be necessarily larger, owing to added expenses caused by the war, but there has been no change made in the naval program as outlined by administration officials more than a year ago.

WAS CONFUSED.

The Newburyport Herald states that a man from this city had a rather trying experience in that city on Sunday evening. It says: "He stepped off of the train which reaches here at 11 o'clock and walked down Pleasant street, evidently believing that he was in the New Hampshire town. He had only progressed a short distance, when he began to wonder where he was, inquiring where 'Cabot street' was. The stranger was told that no such thoroughfare was in the city. Becoming puzzled he wanted to know if this was Portsmouth or if not, what place this was anyway."

When informed that it was Newburyport, and that the last train of the night for Portsmouth had gone he cried, "My God, and my wife is waiting for me on Stata street." There is a Stata street in Portsmouth. With a cold rain pouring down, no friends here, insufficiently garbed to stand the inclement weather and apparently with little money, the stranger in a strange place was indeed in a sorry predicament.

It is presumed that the man found shelter and a lodging house for the night and took the first train for Portsmouth in the morning.

The Temperance Question.

W. P. Landers, secretary of the Massachusetts Total Abstinence Society, in a recent address dealt with the "new approach to the liquor problem" and stated a fact that is fast winning general recognition, which is that business efficiency is becoming the most potent ally of temperance. He spoke of the "demonstrated inadequacy of the older methods" of reaching the boys and girls in the teaching of temperance and went on to show what business exactions are doing toward driving home the fact that intemperance and successful business do not travel hand in hand in these days of fierce competition and strenuous application. Some corporations have gone so far as to prohibit the use of liquor by their men, both when on and off duty, and all are aware that no man addicted to the intemperate use of liquor can hold a responsible position of any kind. In the field of athletics the use of liquor is also discouraged to the extent of total abstinence whenever and wherever possible.

It will be seen that this sort of temperance teaching is for practical purposes, but that is nothing to be wondered at. This is a practical age. The time for attempting to lead people to temperance through fear, by telling and teaching a great many things that are not so, has gone by. There is now a disposition to approach the subject in the light of reason and common sense, and that much more good will be accomplished in this way there is no room to question.

But temperance is a broad subject, and in its true sense it touches all the activities of life as well as the use of liquor. There is such a thing as intemperance in business and intemperance in amusements, and today this form of intemperance is doing as much or more harm than intemperate drinking, for the reason that the latter, prevalent as it is, is confined to a large minority, while every man, woman and child in the land is exposed to the dangers of the former.

But this is no reason why business and amusements should be abolished. The lesson of it all is that temperance in all things is the need of the day. It is a lesson that the American people must learn sooner or later, and while the liquor end may be a good place for the beginning, it must be borne in mind that it will not be time to stop when that part of the question shall have been solved, if it ever is.

It is fortunate that the war is not preventing the importation of toys from Germany, one ship load having reached New York and others being on the way. This gives the people of this country an opportunity to buy them and send them back over the water to Belgium. And, incidentally, it helps the snipping business in these parlous times.

The United States grand jury has indicted 21 directors and former directors of the New Haven railroad. The maximum penalty on conviction will be one year's imprisonment and fines of $5000 each. Now watch and see these men fork over their money and go to jail!

A New England boy had his legs filled with shot on Hallowe'en, and he is probably only one of many who were injured on that happy occasion. Even the youth of the land seem incapable of taking their pleasures temperately.

The Rockefeller Foundation is preparing to relieve distress in Belgium to the extent of millions, if necessary. Under these circumstances "How firm a foundation" should become the most popular hymn in that stricken land.

The British suspect that the Germans have established a wireless station in the Maine woods and are attempting to locate it. Perhaps before the matter ends there may be more accidental shootings in the forest of the north.

Turkey makes one more power mixed up in the war, and there is danger that Greece, Bulgaria and Roumania will yet be drawn in. The capacity to remain neutral at such a time is a rare and proud distinction.

Now that the nightriders of the South have taken up the cotton question, perhaps it is just as well that Congress is not in session. The nightriders are great regulators—in their way.

The Massachusetts red flag law is so sweeping in its scope as to rule out the crimson banner of Harvard university. Another issue to lay before the next legislature.

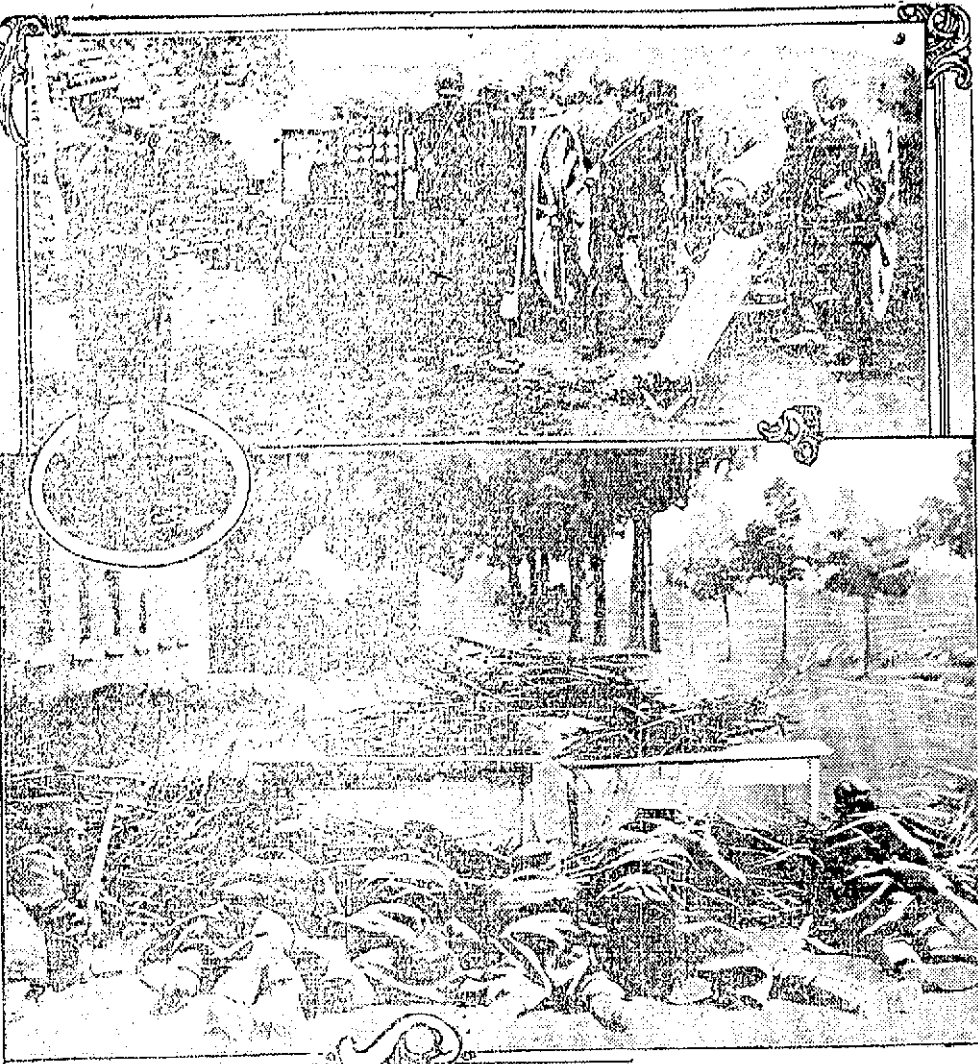

Turkey will soon be mixing it up with the United States also, but in this country it will not be spelled with a capital T. November 26 will be the date of the onslaught.

We are told that the world is growing better, and we all like to believe it. Whether it is so or not, there is a very general agreement that there is room for improvement.

Republican losses cannot be charged up to the weather.

Even the Ute Indians are on the warpath. Next!

These war pictures bring you very near to the front. One of them shows Belgian infantry waiting behind a temporary shield of tanks and brush for the advance of the Germans. They fought as long as they could from behind this sent shelter and then retreated to other temporary means of defense. The other shows French artillery in action near Arras, France, where the fighting has been so severe recently.

PRIMARY LAW MUST GO

Senator Gallinger Says Republicans Will Get Rid of It at Once.

Senator Gallinger appears to be as much opposed as ever to the direct primary law. In a recent interview he said "the law is an abomination, and the New Hampshire Republicans will get rid of it at once."

The Democratic upset on November 3, indicates that the American people are "returning to sanity."

It looks like Whitman in 1916.

Roosevelt has gone into the political discard.

No party that stood for tariff-for-revenue-only, has ever lasted long in the United States.

The Bryan-Wilson Mexican plan is a exhaustious mistake.

He would let them fight it out down there. "They're a bad lot," he says.

"Now that you have come safely through New Hampshire's first trial of the new method what is your opinion," he was asked, "of the direct election of United States senators?"

"I have never believed in the direct election of United States senators,"

Dr. Gallinger said, "and I do not believe in it now. 'The fathers,' he continued, "were wise when they declined upon the constitutional plan of one popular, and one conservative branch of the congress. Their plan was to have senators chosen by the state legislatures, made up presumably of men of careful thought."

"I have seen nothing to warrant a change from that wise arrangement of the fathers. To through the last from the day of John Langdon to the present, and observe the character and calibre of the men who have represented the general states in the senate at Washington, it is an illustrious list."

"Occasionally, it may be, but only occasionally, some men have got a place in the senate by bribery, or some man has been sent to the senate who did not measure up. But these were accidents—and look at what is happening now, under the amended constitution.

"I insisted on these points when the constitutional amendment was being discussed. 'You talk about eliminating bribery,' I said, 'when the system you seek to establish will have the one certain result of making bribery easy.'"

"It sometimes happens that members of delegate conventions can be bribed, but not often. Men come to political conventions with their neighbors and perform their duties under the watchful eyes of these neighbors."

Members of the state legislature can be, and have been bribed, but only rarely. But the bribery of electorates can be accomplished by scattering money through towns and cities under the pretense that voters are being hired to act as political workers."

"This is being done, and it will continue to be done. It remains to be said, however, that the direct election amendment having been adopted, it will probably remain."

"And the direct primary?"

"An abomination," said Senator Gallinger.

"I call the direct primary an abomination," he exclaimed, "because it is keeping down our best men, who are swimming to go through two elections."

"In the first of these elections, the direct primary, we are fighting our own men for the nomination. The result is that 'bad blood' is created between men who should be fighting shoulder to shoulder."

"However, we shall soon get rid of the direct primary in New Hampshire, as we promised to do in the recent platform."

FALL AND WINTER INTIMACY

With the shortening of days comes a closer family intimacy—long beautiful hours to be spent cozily in the home. How to occupy these hours with profit and pleasure will soon be the absorbing question. And surely READING (which, by the way, has never really gone out of style) is a form of diversion that is both profitable and enjoyable. Books of travel, history, and art; books of love, romance, adventure; books of poetry, science, psychology; books of philosophy; books of wars—all of these, or some of these, or one of these, read aloud to the family, or digested slowly and thoroughly by oneself, will make the long evenings pass happily and quickly. The advertising columns of this paper are the literary catalogues of the book-loving public. In them are to be found announcements of new and old books.

MR. HAWKRIDGE LEFT $500,000

Bequest of $7000 to the Malden Home for Aged Persons.

The will of Edwin Hawkridge of Newington, formerly of Malden, Mass., who died October 24, was proved at a special session of the probate court held at Essex on Monday. It leaves $7500 to the Malden Home for Aged Persons, to constitute the Harry Edwin Hawkridge fund, in memory of a deceased son. It is to accumulate to $10,000 when three-fourths of the income is to be used for ordinary purposes of the home, the remainder to add to the comfort, enjoyment and entertainment of inmates.

The wife, Ella M. Hawkridge, is given $50,000, the homestead farm in Newington, with all its furnishings, and realty on Beach street, Malden. She is also residuary legatee.

The son, Leslie D. Hawkridge, is given $25,000, all testator's shares in an obligations due from Hawkridge Brothers Company, the H. D. Evans Steel Company and the Vulcan Tool Manufacturing Company, and realty in Saugus, Mass., and Malden.

A daughter, Ella W. Hawkridge, is given $1000 and realty in Revere, Mass. A daughter, Emma L. Hawkridge, is given $1000 and realty in Everett and Norfolk Downs, Mass. The two daughters will equally share all securities not specifically bequeathed to the son, or specified by the wife as a part of her bequest, and all promissory notes secured by mortgage on Malden realty.

Testator's sister, Louisa J. Barlow, is given $3000.

The will contains a provision that should the testator's wife have died previously, $35,000 should constitute a trust, the income to benefit her mother, Mrs. M. Bladfield. The wife, and the daughter, Ella W. Hawkridge, are appointed executrices of the will, executed July 1, 1912, and the daughter is appointed trustee.

In November, 1906, Mr. Hawkridge bought the Isabella M. Margeson farm at Newington. He is said to have left personal property to the amount of half a million.

PEOPLES' OPINION

A Faulty Teacher

To the Editor:—The communication in your issue of Mon. evening from Councillor Badger arouses some astonishment. In my mind, for, painful as it is to admit it of my fellow-townsmen whom I respect and admire, the whole trend of the article indicates that he has been studying the arts of politics at the feet of Raymond B. Stevens, one of the most adroit politicians of present day New Hampshire. In the three years Mayor Badger served our city he was unaided to tell the whole

CURRENT OPINION

War Marks Overthrow of Civilization and Return of Barbarism.

Let the whole civilized world unite in a demand for a world conference at the close of this war to lay the foundation for a world federation and for the inauguration of the rule of reason among nations.

WAR MARKS THE OVERTHROW OF RATIONAL CIVILIZATION AND IS A REVERSION TO MEDIEVAL TRIAL BY CONFLICT. SO LONG AS THE BELIEF PREVAILS THAT ECONOMIC AND COMMERCIAL GAINS CAN BE HAD BY WAR WARS WILL NOT CEASE. REAL ECONOMIC AND COMMERCIAL PROGRESS IS PLACED UPON ORDERLY, NATURAL DEVELOPMENT.

Human lives are too precious to be sacrificed to passions of GREED OR REVENGE WHICH MIGHT PROLONG THE WAR INDEFINITELY. Now is the time for the humanitarian, peace loving men of the United States to inaugurate a movement that shall be able to do constructive work for peace and civilization at the first opportunity.—By Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor.

story of the affairs in which he was interested. Not until Mr. Stevens began his subtle teachings of half-truths in his criticism of Senator Gallinger has our esteemed ex-Mayor contracted the habit of telling one side of the story. Indeed, if a denial of a republican landslide in the recent election is to be entered, it would be indiscreet to give the figures of both parties.

To secure a reliable basis for comparative purposes the figures of four years ago, an "off" year as was this year, should be used; and the governor's vote is the one that establishes party following. The vote for governor in 1910 and 1914 was as follows:

1914 Spaulding	40,200
1910 Bass	44,968

Republican gain	1,292
1914 Noone	33,814
1910 Carr	37,737

Democratic loss	3,523
There was a change of over 5000 votes.

And now let us have your correspondent, 1912 and 1914:

1914 Noone	33,814
1912 Pelker	34,208

Democratic loss	389
1914 Spaulding	46,200
1912 Worcester	32,504

Republican gain	13,696
-----------------	--------

That comes perilously close at least to a land-slip.

And I say amen to Councillor Badger's gratification that President Wilson can still "do" business at Washington. At one time on the day following election it appeared that a Republican majority in the House might block the President's campaign against the business of the country, but that now he will have full sway to complete his plan, which has proven so disastrous for northern enterprise, it is certain that two years more will convince the voters that democracy spells depression. All that is needed by republicans is to adopt President Wilson's shibboleth of "watchful waiting." He will do the rest.

PEG O' MY HEART.

There's joy in the heart of me,
 Peg o' my heart,
 'Tis the rare Irish part of me,
 Peg o' my heart;
 Night, sweet with dreams of thee,
 Day's music seems of thee,
 The moon, tells her beams of thee,
 Peg o' my heart.

Love for thee sings of thee,
 Peg o' my heart,
 Prayers of thee strengthen me,
 Peg o' my heart;
 None takes the place of thee,
 Dreams of the face of thee,
 Waken God's grace in me,
 Peg o' my heart.

God save thee, soul of me,
 Peg o' my heart,
 Blood of the pulse of me,
 Peg o' my heart;
 God's mirrored trinity,
 Faith, hope, divinity,
 Thrill in the soul of me,
 Peg o' my heart.

Love for thee blesses me,
 Peg o' my heart,
 Smiles of thee, tears of thee,
 Peg o' my heart,
 Bring me so near to thee,
 Holding thee, dear, to me,
 Closer each year to thee,
 Peg o' my heart.

I, too, am a child with thee,
 Peg o' my heart,
 God has been mild with me,
 Peg o' my heart;
 The birds' sweetest melody
 Chimes with the knell of thee
 Hours while I tell of thee,
 Peg o' my heart.

—Henry B. Tierney.

Just like Reverend Henry B. Tierney's poem, there's always just the suspicion of a tear lurking in the happy laughter of Florence Martin in her delightful interpretation of "Peg o' My Heart," now nearing its hundredth performance in Boston at the Court theatre.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, Nov. 10.—Reports are current from certain municipalities that threats are being made to apply for injunctions against such registrars of voters as refuse to recognize abolition of party enrollment and throw out municipal primary nomination papers bearing signatures of voters enrolled in a party different from that represented by the candidate. Threats are also made to prevent city clerks from printing ballots under the old law, separately for each party, and to compel them to provide the single ballot with party candidates in separate party columns as ordered by the new law.

Threats are also being made by individuals, that they will refuse any longer to tell the party the candidates of which they wish to elect, and will make trouble if a ballot is not handed out without their submitting to an inquisition. That the abolition of party enrollment has been ratified by the voters, is generally conceded but the fact will not be officially promulgated before Thanksgiving week, after the tabulation of the returns by the governor's council. Meantime there is an increasing demand from those interested in municipal elections, not only for information as to the effect of the abolition, but also for some official recognition of what, according to the meagre news obtainable, is already an accomplished fact.

Boston, Nov. 10.—Patriotic organizations will join Friday in public ceremonies and a banquet in observance of the tenth anniversary of the birth of General Joseph Hooker. The Hooker Association of Massachusetts, of which Thomas R. Matthews is president, is in charge. The public meeting in Tremont Temple at 2.30 p. m. will include many notable features, and be preceded by a parade which will pass the appropriately decorated statue on the State House grounds. Governor Walsh will preside at the meeting and the speakers include, Mayor Curley, Major General Leonard Wood, U. S. A., Department Commander John M. Woods, G. A. R. of Massachusetts; Mrs. Laura I. Smith, department president of the Woman's Relief Corps; former Governor, Curtis Guild, and Frank J. Donahue, department president of the Sons of Veterans of Massachusetts.

Boston, Nov. 10.—As an additional measure to prevent the spread of the foot and mouth disease in Massachusetts, Commander Fred F. Walker of the state department of Animal Industry prohibits the movement of cattle, sheep or swine on the highway in any part of the Commonwealth, except by permit. With the approval of the governor and council, obtained at a special meeting Saturday, the order to this effect was issued and addressed to "all persons whom it may concern." Another order forbidding the removal of any farm utensils, or hay, grain, fodder, forage and other products from any farm where infection was also approved by the council.

Boston, Nov. 10.—Returns from more than four-fifths of the cities and towns in the state show that the three minor parties—Prohibition, Socialist-Labor and Socialist, still fall far short of polling votes large enough to give them standing as political parties. To be ranked as a political party in the state, a candidate must receive a vote equal to 3 per cent of the total vote in the state. This means a vote of about 75,000 this year, as the total vote of the state for governor, was about 450,000.

PRETTY WEDDING AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Historic St. John's Episcopal church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Monday evening when Miss Sara Gertrude Poole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H.
Poole of Hanover street, became the bride of Bontswain George Knott, U.
S. N., attached to the U. S. survey ship Leonidas, now at this yard.

The ceremony was at 6 o'clock and there was a large number present in the church, including the majority of the operators from the Telephone Exchange, where the bride has long been employed.

Rev. C. H. Merrill, in the absence of Rector Polson, performed the service. The bride was handsomely gowned in a dress of white duchess satin en train, silk Arabee waist, pearl trimmings and wore a tulle veil caught with lilacs of the valley, and who carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

She was attended by her cousin,
Miss Helen G. Poole of Cambridge, who wore a blue tulle silk dress trimmed with duchess lace, and a castle cap with gold lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

SEEK HIDDEN
WIRELESS KITFederal Officials Act on Rumors of Station in Maine Wilds.

Washington, Nov. 9. Persistent reports that hidden wireless stations along the coasts of the United States are serving as information bureaus for belligerent cruisers at sea have caused the navy to join the state department in efforts to locate and destroy such stations if they actually exist.

It became known tonight that plans for the search have been the subjects of conference between Counselor Lansing of the state department; Secretary Daniels and Captain Ballard in charge of the naval radio service.

According to their reports, both German and Japanese have concealed wireless outfits. One is said to be located in the woods of the Maine coast, another in the northwest and still another on the Florida peninsula.

Messages have been picked up by merchant ships that apparently came from these stations, though the fact that they are generally in code has made it impossible to trace them to their origin. Naval experts say it would be a comparatively simple matter to rig up antennae for a sending wireless outfit between a couple of tall forest trees in a manner to escape casual observation, while the necessary power might be derived from some innocent looking sawmill in the heart of the forest.

It has been found possible to receive beaming messages with the ordinary commercial outfits.

"TRUE GREATNESS OF NATIONS."

Let States that aim at greatness take heed how their nobility and gentleness do multiply too fast.

The greatness of an estate in bulk and territory doth fall under measure, and the greatness of finances and revenue doth fall under computation. The population may appear by musters, and the number and greatness of cities and towns by cards and maps. But yet there is not anything amongst civil affairs more subject to error than the right valuation and true judgment concerning the power and forces of an estate.

The best governments are always subject to be like the fairest crystals when every tele or grain is seen, which in a fouler stone is never perceived.

Let nations that pretend to greatness have this, that they be sensible of wrongs, either upon borderers, merchants, or politic ministers, and that they sit not too long upon a provocation.

Number itself in armies imparteth not much where the people is of weak courage; for, as Virgil saith, "It never troubles a wolf how many the sheep be."

All precepts concerning Kings are in effect comprehended in these remembrances: Remember thou art a man; remember thou art God's viceregent; the one biddeth their power, and the other their will.

WOMAN REPORTS QUEER CASE TO LOCAL POLICE

Man Who Was to Make Her His Bride Takes Her Money and Skips -- Belongs in This City.

Mrs. Bevens, a widow, 24 years of age, reported a sad case to the police today. Mrs. Bevens came from Marlboro, Mass., where her husband died last September after only four months of wedded life. She was looking for a Portsmouth man who had been in charge of her small farm just outside the town. She alleges that this man promised to marry her and represented himself as having $800 in one of the Portsmouth banks. On Saturday last, he told her he wanted to go to this city to get his bank account and she loaned him $25, also her dead husband's gold watch, valued at $60, and his overcoat. He started from Marlboro early in the day, but returned that night and told her that he had been robbed in Boston. He worked more money, and she gave him $5 more to pay his way to Portsmouth. On looking over his clothing she found a pawn ticket for the watch which he disposed of in Boston. She kept the find to herself and to satisfy her mind whether or not he had money, she agreed to accompany him to Portsmouth. On the road between Marlboro and Boston she got car sick and could go no further than the North End station. The man in question, told her that he would continue on and that he would return as soon as possible from this city, after withdrawing his account. She waited until 10 p. m. and the slippery gent did not arrive. She then came here alone and explained the case.

The police were not long in posting her. This man has a record in the municipal and superior courts and her visit here saved her further trouble. While she felt the loss of her money, she was pleased that she hesitated in marriage to this man who will later land in jail.

She reported the case to the Boston and Marlboro police today.

WANTS MATCH WITH DRYDEN

Woonsocket Wrestler Issues Defi to Local Man.

Starting Editor Portsmouth Herald—Information coming to me that you have a wrestler, so called, in Portsmouth by the name of Dryden. I would like to have you issue a challenge from me to him through your paper. They tell me that he weighs 180 pounds, yet that is no obstacle, as the bigger they are the harder they fall. I am also informed that he has never wrestled outside of Portsmouth, so I suppose he is a farmer boy; one of the slow kind. There is hardly any need for me to give you a write-up about myself, as I am well known. I will wrestle Dryden for any thing he says or any way he may suggest. I will also make a side bet if it will be any inducement.

I have won decisions over such men as Cuccini, the French Lion; Olson, the Swede; Turner, the champion middleweight; Sam Anderson, and many other good men.

Thanking you in anticipation of the favor, and hoping to hear from Dryden, I remain—

Yours respectfully,
Peter Goulette.

THE HERALD HEARS

That the auto chemical and crew have not answered any kind of an alarm for over two weeks.

That this is the longest quiet spell in many months.

That the fifty or more people who congregated at the depot on Monday evening can be counted as a lively delegation.

That they were there to tender a bride and groom the usual reception that goes with a honeymoon departure and they did it with potency.

That the vaudeville performance before the arrival of the wedding party was staged in good style.

That the baggage truck ride was not as comfortable as a spin in a Packard, but the female passengers that were aboard say it was the first time they got any free transportation on the Boston and Maine system.

That a kodak shot of the ring around Rosie stunt would make a hit.

That the Democrats are fishing for a mayoralty candidate.

That a well known Boston and Maine trainman to kill a little time on Monday in this city, too ka stroll in the vicinity of Goodwin Park.

That while meandering there he was held up by two plain clothes men of the police department who were on the hunt for crooks.

That the officers nearly took away his breath when they demanded to know who he was and what his business was.

That he finally demanded to know what authority they had to hold him up.

That the officers flashed their badges and then the railroad man presented his pass.

That the police then told him what they were looking for and also said: "You are liable to get held up anywhere in this city."

That the stranger replied: "Not I know it!" and he bent it for the depot.

That he never moved from one spot at the station until his train pulled in for Boston.

That managers of the Telephone Company in different cities are having a lot of trouble with parties selling what is known as a transmitter cut-out.

That the device cannot be connected with any telephone according to the subscribers contract.

That several people have been stung in purchasing the rig.

That Senator Gallinger says the primary law is an abomination and will have to go.

Mr. J. M. Johnson was a recent visitor in Boston.

PIANO TALKS WHAT IS AN OPTIMIST?

"A man who, falling from a fourth-story window, is heard to murmur as he passes the first floor, 'All right so far.' This reminds us of the deluded individuals who purchase cheap pianos. They think because the instrument looks bright and shiny and seems to 'work' pretty well for the first six months or so that it is 'all right.' They don't realize that the life of a good piano is measured by years, almost a life time, in fact.

Any Piano Makeshift

Will hold together and "go" for a year or two, but how about it after 10, 15 or 25 years of service?

When you buy a piano buy the reliable, standard make that has something more than a cheap salesman's recommendation behind it. That kind is sold at
